Kibbutz Kfar Blum

Kfar Blum Upper Galilee, Upper Galilee, 12150, Israel

A kibbutz was originally a cooperative community governed by the general assembly of its members. Property is collectively owned and all share in the work of the community. All members have equal rights and each contributes his labor and skills, according to his or her ability, to the economic, social and cultural advancement of the kibbutz. In return, the kibbutz assumes responsibility for the well-being of its members and provides for their physical, cultural, educational and social needs.

The kibbutz hotel opened in 1957 as a single six-room facility built to accommodate members' guests. Due to the growing demand, it developed into a small intimate hotel comprising 192 five-star rooms, a lobby, a restaurant, a spa, convention halls and numerous amenities. For recreation, the kibbutz offers an Olympic-size swimming pool, tennis courts, cinder track and kayaking down the Jordan River. Near the kayak site, there is an adventure park, a refreshment stand and picnic areas.
